Executive Advisor

A blend of disciplines creates real and lasting value for our client hospitals

Scott has over 17 years of healthcare industry experience leading healthcare organizations in a variety of capacities. Prior to joining StatCom he was responsible for leading the development of the Orthopedic, Neuroscience, and Sports Medicine departments at a three hospital tertiary care system in Atlanta, (Children's Healthcare of Atlanta), where he successfully led system level strategic planning efforts focused on volume growth, cost reduction efforts, process improvement, and physician engagement/alignment efforts.

Statcom is at the leading edge of what is needed to reform healthcare today — providing processes and systems that give healthcare leaders the ability to develop true control over their daily operations. StatCom's approach is unique in that we aren't just a process improvement company, or a technology company, or a change management/consulting company. Rather we blend all three of these disciplines, which ultimately creates a real and lasting value proposition for our client hospitals.

Prior to this role Scott worked as a regional director for Accelerero Partners, (formerly the Human Motion Institute), a healthcare consulting organization focused on service line development and re-organizing care delivery systems, where he successfully led numerous engagements with hospitals and healthcare organizations throughout the United States. Scott began his healthcare career in the US Navy where he gained exposure in multiple disciplines including: Physical Therapy, Emergency Medicine/Trauma, Med/Surg Nursing, Pharmacy, and other clinical areas.

Scott has Bachelor of Science in Healthcare Administration from Southern Illinois University and a Master of Business Administration from Hawaii Pacific University. He is a member of American College of Healthcare Executives (ACHE) and the Association of Strategic Planning.
