Enterprise Vice President, Northeast

Partnering with client hospital executives to ensure the success of their transformation project

Tom Brunelle FACHE, MBA, has over 30 years working in hospital administration. He previously served as EVP and CEO of the Warwick, NY and Port Jervis, NY hospitals for the Bon Secours Charity Health System, and EVP and COO of the Samaritan Health system in Watertown, NY. He is described by his peers as “an excellent leader, very trustworthy, with high integrity, and complete knowledge of hospital operations, having worked his way up through the system, starting as a Respiratory Therapist.”

Tom is known as an executive with turnaround capability, demonstrated at the hospitals for which he has been responsible, and an effective leader of the medical staff and executive boards. He has experience in managing both independent hospitals and multi-facility systems and has improved profitability through revenue growth, cost reduction, physician practice development, new program development and improving customer service in competitive markets. During Tom’s hospital executive leadership career, he also served on multiple regional and national system task forces and committees focused on improving clinical quality, reducing length of stay, reducing costs, and upgrading information technology systems.

In his role as enterprise VP, Brunelle partners with client hospital executives to ensure the success of their transformation project. Assisting him are executive advisors and transformation engineers who collaborate with existing hospital resources to drive the process transformation methodology. The outcome is breakthrough operational performance.

Tom has a Bachelor’s Degree from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and a Master of Business Administration Degree from Anna Maria College. He is also a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives.
